WELCOME TO NOVI SAD

Words and pictures don't do justice to this city; Novi Sad is simply something more and something different. The city is a clash of many different styles, though its architecture is primarily Austro-Hungarian. People usually say that it is very easy to get to know this city, very easy to love it and impossible to forget it. One of the main reasons for this is the hospitable mentality of its citizens; its inhabitants are open-minded, joyful and friendly.

Seen from above, City of Novi Sad reveals itself as a city located in a vast plain, spacious and open to all directions. Fortress of Petrovaradin, a historical site, is situated on the right bank of the River Danube, whereas a tall building of Central Post Office, massive construction of Spens Sports Centre, immense headquarter of Petroleum Industry of Serbia and elegant oval edifice of Banovina (a seat of Government of Autonomous Province of Vojvodina) are situated on the left. What eyes could also perceive are green oases embodied in City parks, with labyrinth of streets and alleys meandering around them and cut across with wide and straight boulevards. Moreover, there is the Danube as an unsymmetrical, potent axe of the City, embraced with long quay and Strand, the most beautiful city beach along the Danube. In addition to that, there are the bridges that Novi Sad once lost, but that are re-built from scratch. And there will be plenty of them, quite soon.

Seen in terms of our planet, City perfectly fits into a rich tradition of Pannonian Basin, in which everything is prone to grow, from well-preserved Secession to Post-modern architecture. Nowadays, a widely recognizable symbol of the City is Exit Festival, while in the past, and even so today that place has been reserved for the Serbian cultural institutions: Matica srpska - the oldest cultural-scientific institution of Serbia, Serbian National Theatre, Sterijino pozorje Theatre Festival... Furthermore, our City, in contrast to many other European destinations, has the reputation, by full right, of a multinational, multicultural and multi-confessional metropolis in which all differences are seen as advantages.

1st OPEN BALKAN SCHOOL KARATE GAMES

In 1985, Melina Mercouri, Minister of Culture of Greece, and French Minister of Culture Jack Lang came to the idea to choose European Capital of Culture once a year in order to connect people in Europe and to increase awareness of common history and values. The same year, the project was initiated by the resolution of the EU Ministers of Culture. This initiative soon became one of the most prestigious events in Europe. Since then, more than 40 European cities have taken the title of the European Capital of Culture. Each year, selected cities are examples of the richness and diversity of European cultures.

In 2017, the City of Novi Sad won the title of the European Capital of Culture for 2021, when it will be available for the first time to cities and countries outside the European Union. On the track of positive experiences of other capitals, the project Novi Sad 2021 was designed as a platform for the development of cultural and creative potentials of the City, which in the coming years will aim to strengthen the cultural vitality of the City, enable urban regeneration, and improve the international reputation and touristic offer of Novi Sad. In this way, the City of Novi Sad will work on the strategy of sustainable development of the cultural sector with the focus on: strengthening the institutions of culture, restoring cultural heritage, strengthening cultural participation, developing cultural and creative industries, decentralization and cross-sectoral cooperation.

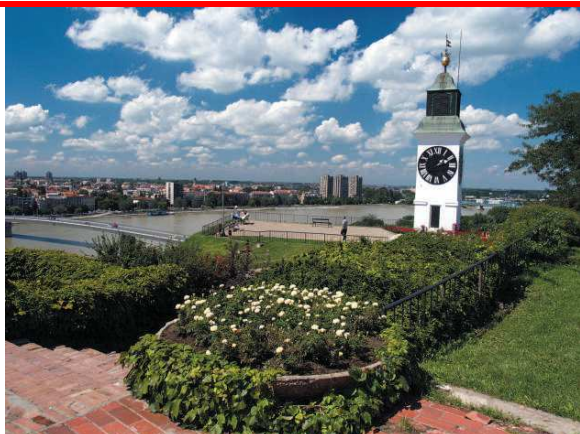

After the final presentation of the "Novi Sad - Opens the Door" project, held by the Novi Sad delegation in Varna, 11 members of the expert jury made the decision to bring Novi Sad to the title of the Youth Capital of Europe in 2019.

This title is awarded for a period of one year. During this period, the chosen city has the opportunity to show through its multipurpose programs its cultural, social, political and economic life and development programs for young people.

As Novi Sad was proclaimed European Capital of Culture for 2021, Mayor Mr. Miloš Vučević said that he was proud that young people with their energy managed to position Novi Sad high on the map of Europe in the field of youth politics and thanked everyone who contributed to Novi Sad's gaining another European recognition.

In addition to everything mentioned, Novi Sad has been the center of great World and European competitions in many sports, such as the European Wrestling Championships, Tennis FED Cup, World Table Tennis Championships, World Volleyball League, European Karate Championships for Regions, European Karate Championships for Cadets, Juniors and U21 and so on.
