The diagram shows a hierarchical tree structure. It starts with a root node (red) on the left. This root has two children: a red node and a blue node. The red node has two children: a red node and a blue node. The blue node has two children: a red node and a blue node. This pattern continues, with each red node having two children (one red, one blue) and each blue node having two children (one red, one blue). The tree structure is shown as a series of horizontal bars connected by vertical lines, with the final node on the right being a grey bar.
